Manager's report

Economic context

The desynchronised growth of the world economy continued to be an ongoing trend and a source of concern, especially as major international organisations were forced to regularly downgrade their growth forecasts following disappointing results in the emerging economies. In view of this situation, and although the downgrading of indicators in most of the major emerging countries (with the exception of Brazil) ended at the close of the year, this was not welcome news to investors. On the contrary, renewed weakness in oil from November onwards reignited fears about global growth although the price was more a reflection of the imbalance between excess supply (due to OPEC's refusal to set production quotas) and limited demand, especially following a very mild early winter in Europe and North America.

United States

GDP fluctuated in a fairly volatile manner during the year: after modest growth in the first quarter due to weather conditions and the shut-down affecting ports on the west coast, GDP bounced back sharply in the second quarter (almost 4% year-on-year) then stabilised at around 2%. Inventory adjustments played a role in the fluctuation of GDP and business activities. In fact, widespread de-stocking since the summer has negatively affected the manufacturing sector, casting a shadow over the surveys of purchasing managers (as also seen in the ISM index which fell below 50 in November compared with 53.5 in June), along with industrial production and investments. This downturn has alarmed some observers who believed that these could be the first signs the economy was running out of steam. The facts did not support this assumption, as the service sector managed to withstand the industrial vacuum and the housing market rose sharply, with the outlook remaining very encouraging. Finally, in terms of private consumption the trends have been more regular and this sector has seen steadier growth, reflecting the undeniable improvement in the labour market. With 2.7 million jobs created in 2015 and the unemployment rate falling to 5% in October, full employment is on the horizon. Up to now wages have only risen moderately for several reasons: the use of part-time jobs by companies is still high and households continue to question the possibility of easily finding a new job. However, several surveys have revealed that businesses, especially smaller ones, are looking for qualified employees and are willing to increase wages significantly to take on and retain staff. A rise in wages is set to become a more widespread trend. Inflation remained low in 2015 (0.5% year-on-year in November) due to the effects of the lower oil price during the previous year. The Fed believes that this should be a temporary phenomenon. Inflation, excluding food and energy, rose from 1.6% in January to 2% in November year-on-year, a trend that validated this assumption.

Europe

GDP was up strongly in the euro zone from the start of the year onwards, with a quarterly rise from 0.3% to 0.5%, and the rate standing at 1.6% year-on-year in the third quarter (compared with 0.8% a year earlier), the highest rise since mid-2011. Growth was above expectations due to consumption that remained strong throughout the year and good performance by the exports sectors in the first six months. Investment in productive assets is still not picking up convincingly. The steady improvement in the distribution of credit to the private sector was a positive point. Low interest rates in line with the extremely accommodating monetary policy of the ECB further emphasised this trend. Moreover, banks are reporting that the demand for credit is rising. Finally, according to the survey of purchasing managers, the expansion rate for total business (manufacturing and service sectors combined) rallied in December to reach a four-month high. This rising trend at the end of the year appeared very encouraging. According to several official institutions, GDP growth in the 4th quarter should stand at 0.4%, close to the rate observed since the end of 2014. This performance is even more remarkable given the occurrence of number of events in 2015 likely to affect the confidence of economic operators: the first six months were marked by the Greek crisis and the second half of the year witnessed regional and general elections that resulted in a fairly confusing political landscape in several countries (Portugal and Spain) and the widespread rise of Euro-sceptic parties in response to the refugee crisis, not to mention the tragic events which cast a pall over Paris. Inflation, which stood at -0.6% year-on-year in January, remained very weak (+0.2% in November).

Japan

In Japan, GDP rose sharply in the first quarter of 2015 after a year that had witnessed a technical recession following the increase in VAT on 1 April 2014. After this, growth was much more faltering, even raising fears of a return to recession. The PMI index, which reflects the survey of purchasing managers in the manufacturing sector, dropped from 52 at the end of 2014 to around 50 in the spring before resuming an upward trend and closing the year at 52.6. Through its exporting companies, the Japanese economy is suffering from the difficulties in China, while domestic demand appears to be picking up, linked to an improving job market (the unemployment rate stood at 3.3% at year-end). With inflation again standing at close to zero in the second half of the year (0.3% in November year-on-year compared with 2.4% in January), the Bank of Japan was forced to acknowledge that it would not meet its target of 2% within the expected deadline.

Manager's report

Emerging markets

Although the OECD forecast in June 2015 that the GDP of emerging economies would increase by 4.2% in 2015 and 4.9% in 2016, in November the organisation published a new report predicting figures of 3.7% and 4.2% respectively. Among the leading countries, only India reported faster growth in 2015. The staggering drop in the price of oil from mid-2014 and another drop in mid-2015 obviously affected commodity-producing countries. Logically, this situation should have a positive effect on Asia; however, the slowdown in activity in China and concerns about the nature of the slowdown had a negative effect on the more cyclical stocks from this region. Following changes to the Chinese business model, the official target was lowered to 6.5% for the coming years compared with 7% previously. In this context, the aggregated PMI index, which reflects the opinions of purchasing managers on emerging economies, fell below 50 in the spring, thus revealing a contraction in manufacturing activity. The trend over the last quarter was a little more encouraging; however, the index failed to rise above 50. Signs of improvement are currently very tenuous and mostly hidden by the difficulties of the major economies. Russia and Brazil are both in recession due to the tense foreign relations situation in the former country and a major power struggle in the latter. The difficulties in Russia are mainly due to declining oil prices, while in Brazil the crisis is more deep-rooted. In fact, President Dilma Rousseff is facing impeachment following a corruption scandal. Inflation has also reached its highest point since 2002, meaning that the central bank will continue to increase its rates after the 250 bp rise in 2015.

Monetary policy

In 2015, the monetary policy of the European Central Bank (ECB) reached another decisive turning point. On 22 January, a QE (Quantitative Easing) programme comparable to the policy rolled out in the United States and United Kingdom was announced. The key feature of the programme is €60 billion per month of asset purchases. In addition to the covered bonds and asset-backed securities (ABS) purchased since the autumn of 2014, the programme now includes securities (including inflation-indexed securities) issued by supranational agencies and governments. Purchases of government bonds, which began on 9 March, also include securities with a negative interest rate, with the deposit rate used as a limit. For several months after the roll-out of these operations, the comments made by the ECB mainly consisted of saying that the programme was operating "without any difficulties" and would continue until at least September 2016. The financial turbulence in the summer and inflation that remained very low in the euro zone led some observers to consider the announcement of additional measures. In October, Mario Draghi also hinted that far-reaching measures would be announced in December and other extremely accommodating statements further fuelled expectations in November such as: "we will do what we need to do to increase inflation as soon as possible". This attitude may have been counter-productive as on 3 December the ECB failed to live up to expectations by only lowering the deposit facility rate by 10 bp (to stand at -0.30%), leaving the two other key interest rates unchanged (the interest rate on the main refinancing operations has stood at 0.05% and the marginal lending facility rate at 0.30% since September 2014) and extending purchases of securities under the scope of QE until "March 2017 or beyond if necessary". A decision was also taken to "reinvest the principal payments on the securities purchased under the public sector asset purchasing programme as they mature". The monetary policy was therefore more accommodating than in October in order to ensure that inflation (0.2% year-on-year in November) returned to levels "below but close to 2%".

While the ending of the monthly securities purchasing scheme in November 2014 for the purpose of normalising its monetary policy failed to trigger any specific reaction, the US Federal Reserve (the Fed) has found it trickier to control expectations on interest rates. The forward-looking statements in the official communiqué issued after each monetary policy committee have changed over the months. The Fed took a decisive step in March by refusing to fix a timetable stating that the economic situation would determine the decision to raise rates. Moreover, Janet Yellen indicated that once the increase starts, the rise will be gradual; she also restated that monetary policy should be forward-looking. Linking monetary policy decisions and economic data has unfortunately complicated the analysis, since the latter has been particularly volatile since the start of 2015 and expectations of higher rates only slowly gained ground and continued to fluctuate until the autumn. After raising concerns about growth by failing to increase the key rates in September (due to the difficult international financial situation), it was right at the end of the year (16 December) that Janet Yellen was finally able to announce the abandonment of the zero-rate policy that had been in force since the end of 2008. The ground for such an action had been well prepared during the previous meeting. The target federal funds rate in the US will now range between 0.25% and 0.50% and the Fed is considering further increases in the coming months (a total of 100 bp in 2016 according to the forecasts supplied by all the participants at the FOMC).

Foreign exchange markets

Volatility on the foreign exchange market remained high in 2015, attaining at the start of year the levels seen in 2012 and 2013 for currencies of the major developed countries, with emerging currencies even exceeding these levels. The reason for this feverish climate was the prospect of the Fed increasing interest rates, which would be likely to trigger capital flows within the emerging areas.

Manager's report

In addition, the difficulties experienced by commodity-producing countries played a role and also affected the currencies of developed countries (CAD, AUD, NZD, NOK). Moreover, two adjustments of the exchange rate policy revived the spectre of a currency war, further highlighting the nervousness. This was due, firstly, to the totally unexpected decision of the SNB (Swiss National Bank) on 15 January to scrap the cap on its currency put in place in September 2011 and, secondly, the surprise devaluation of the Chinese yuan in August, clumsily implemented by the Central Bank. The extremely accommodating policy put in place by the ECB – widening the difference between its monetary policy and that of the United States – was responsible for changes in the EUR/USD rate. After this wave of extremely wide fluctuations (1.05–1.21), the euro had dropped by 10.3% against the dollar in the space of twelve months to stand at 1.0861. A low was reached in March (the lowest point since January 2003), and concerns about Greece further penalised the euro. The exchange rate then moved up and down without any great direction, fluctuating several times above 1.14 on the basis of elements such as economic data, political developments and trends on other financial markets. In October, the theme of divergent actions from the central banks returned to the fore. The exchange rate returned virtually to its low point in early December in anticipation of another major easing programme until the actual announcements dashed hopes and saw it return to 1.10.

The USD/JPY exchange rate went over 120 in late December 2014 (the highest point since mid-2007) before fluctuating widely around this level until May. It did not manage to settle long term at 125 – the level attained during the summer – as the announcements from the Bank of Japan and the government about their willingness to retain the "weak yen" policy were fairly vague. In August, the announced devaluation of the Chinese yuan temporarily brought the exchange rate to 116 before it stabilised at around 120 until October. For the rest of the year, fluctuations moved within a slightly broader range (120–124) without reflecting much conviction on the part of traders as the Bank of Japan continued to maintain a degree of uncertainty about its future securities purchasing operations and simply made a minor adjustment in December. The USD/JPY rate ended the year at 120.20, a 0.3% rise.

Bond markets

In twelve months, the yield of 10-year US T-notes fell by 10 bp: after fluctuating between 1.65% in January (the lowest point since May 2013) and 2.50% during the summer, it ended the year at 2.27%. The annual change seems modest when taking into account the fact that the Fed stopped QE at the end of 2014 and that a 25 bp rise in interest rates occurred in December. Furthermore, although volatile, the economic data has reflected a steady improvement in the job market, which is a key factor for solid growth. In a reversal of the customary relationship between American and European bonds, as a result of the ECB's asset purchasing programme from March onwards, the sharp easing in the euro zone up to April mechanically strengthened the yield offered by US securities. In May and June, the speed and the magnitude of the pressure on German rates weighed heavily on US markets. In terms of bonds, the year witnessed several peaks in volatility as a result of trends on other financial markets. While the level of US long-term interest rates in June and July (around 2.50%) seemed to correctly reflect the improvement in US domestic demand, concerns about global growth and the renewed weakness of commodity prices led to an easing of long-term interest rates, exacerbated by the difficulties experienced by shares. From August onwards, the 10-year rate fluctuated within a narrower range (2%–2.35%) in line with the Fed's monetary policy. The surprise decision to maintain the status quo in September saw a significant easing of long-term interest rates while the eagerly awaited rise in interest rates in December had an impact on the short section of the curve: the 2-year rate ended the year at 1.05% (compared with 0.66% at the end of 2014) – the highest rate since the spring of 2010 – in view of expectations of a continued normalisation of rates in 2016.

In the euro zone, the trends observed for government bonds primarily reflected the ECB's monetary policy (expectations and decisions). It seems paradoxical that the German 10-year Bund's yield dropped by 9 bp in twelve months as the ECB announced in January a massive securities purchasing policy that was implemented from March onwards. This performance was due to the excessive easing implemented during the first four months of the year. Against a backdrop of a very accommodating monetary policy and a sharp slowdown in inflation, the German 10-year rate dropped from 0.54% at the end of 2014 to below 0.08% on 20 April 2015, in a virtually uninterrupted movement. The safe-haven investment status of German Government bonds played a role in the easing of rates in view of concerns arising in particular from the heated discussions between Greece and its creditors. The subsequent sharp correction was triggered by technical factors, special market conditions and adjustments of positions by hedge funds. After initially settling at around 0.60%, the yield of the German 10-year Bund was around 1% on 10 June. It then resumed a bearish trend, though a weaker and much more uneven one than in the spring. The end of the year was characterised by increased volatility triggered by the words of Mario Draghi, who raised hopes before dashing them by easing monetary policy a little more (but less than expected). During the second half of the year, investors, without taking economic fundamentals into consideration, were inclined to take profits each time the yield of German Bunds dipped below 0.50%. The Bund ended 2015 at 0.63%.

Manager's report

Equity markets

The MSCI AC World Index (in USD) posted an annual drop of 4.3% and the MSCI Emerging index (in USD) was down by 17%. From this perspective, 2015 was a bad year. At the same time, S&P 500 was down 0.7% – a disappointing performance – while the Eurostoxx 50 was up 3.9% and the Nikkei 225 up 9.1%, with all these indices expressed in the local currencies. The figures mentioned above are variations in the price of the indices excluding dividends reinvested. The first half of the year was generally positive, particularly in Europe and Japan, and the gains amassed then compensated for the second half of the year, which was more or less negative on all of the major markets. There were several peaks in volatility during the summer months when the markets experienced stress levels not seen since the European sovereign crisis. Several factors explained the jitteriness of investors. In Greece, after Alexis Tsipras won the elections on a platform of rejecting the reforms and measures associated with the European and international bailout packages, the Greek issue returned to centre stage. In July, while Greece seemed to be on the edge of bankruptcy and the euro zone about to split apart, the compromises reached in extremis were enough to reassure investors despite the enormity of the Greek debt placing an ongoing threat on the country's future. Fears then began to focus on China. The sharp correction of stock exchanges in mainland China from the middle of June induced the authorities to put in place various support and control measures, though without producing tangible results. Doubts about the health of the Chinese economy were then fuelled by disappointing economic data. The surprise devaluation of the yuan against the dollar in August increased nervousness. Finally, the further drop in the price of oil from late June (although the price of a barrel of WTI had returned to $60 compared with less than $45 in March) was interpreted as a clear sign of a global economic slowdown. At year-end, OPEC's decision not to set production quotas drove the price of a WTI barrel below $35. In one year, the price of oil, which had fallen 46% in 2014, dropped another 30%. International equities fell sharply in August. The role of central bankers was again decisive this year. Fluctuations in monetary policy expectations, especially in the United States and in the euro zone, triggered sharp variations on the stock markets, reflecting a certain continued "addiction" of investors to liquid stocks. European equities benefited in the first half of the year from the roll-out of the ECB's quantitative easing programme. The recovery of global equities in October (which did not last) was based on hopes of a widening of the easing programme from the ECB. It took a while for the message from the Chairman of the Fed to be clearly understood; however, the rise in American interest rates announced in December was ultimately fairly well accepted.

Note 2 - Principal accounting methods

a) Net asset value

This annual report is prepared on the basis of the last net asset value as at 31 December 2015.

b) Presentation of the financial statements

The financial statements of the Company are presented in accordance with the legislation in force in Luxembourg on undertakings for collective investment. The consolidation currency of the Company is the euro (EUR).

The statement of operations and changes in net assets covers the financial year from 1 January 2015 to 31 December 2015.

c) Valuation of the securities portfolio

The valuation of all securities listed on a stock exchange or any other regulated market, which functions regularly, is recognised and accessible to the public, is based on the closing price on the order acceptance date, or the price on the market day following that day for Asian/Pacific markets, and, if the securities concerned are traded on several markets, on the basis of the most recent price on the major market on which they are traded; if this price is not a true reflection, the valuation shall be based on the probable sale price estimated by the Board of Directors in a prudent and bona fide manner.

Unlisted securities or securities not traded on a stock exchange or another regulated market which functions in a regular manner, is recognised and accessible to the public, shall be valued on the basis of the probable sale price estimated in a prudent and bona fide manner by a qualified professional appointed for this purpose by the Board of Directors.

If permitted by market practice, liquid assets, money market instruments and all other instruments may be valued at their nominal value plus accrued interest or according to the linear amortisation method. Any decision to value the assets in the portfolio using the linear amortisation method must be approved by the Board of Directors, which will record the reasons for such a decision. The Board of Directors will put in place appropriate checks and controls concerning the valuation of the instruments.

Investments in open-ended UCIs are valued on the basis of the last available NAV of the units or shares of such UCIs.

d) Net realised result on the securities portfolio

The net realised result on investment securities is calculated on the basis of the average cost of the securities sold.

e) Conversion of foreign currencies

Values expressed in a currency other than the currency in which the relevant sub-fund is denominated will be converted on the basis of the exchange rate applicable on the valuation day.

f) Distribution of costs

The costs common to the various sub-funds, classes or categories of the Company are distributed among the various sub-funds, classes or categories, prorata to their respective net assets.

g) Valuation of forward foreign exchange contracts

Unexpired forward foreign exchange contracts are valued on the basis of the forward exchange rates applicable on the valuation date or the closing date, and the resulting unrealised profits or losses are recorded in the accounts.

h) Valuation of futures contracts

Unexpired futures contracts are valued at the last price known on the valuation date or closing date and the resulting unrealised profits or losses are accounted for.

Margin accounts to guarantee the liabilities on futures contracts are included in the “Cash at banks and time deposits” account in the statement of net assets.

i) Valuation of options

The liquidation value of options traded on stock markets is based on the closing prices published by the stock markets on which the Company traded the contracts in question. The liquidation value of options not traded on stock markets is determined in accordance with the rules defined by the Board of Directors, in accordance with uniform criteria for each category of contract.

j) Repurchase agreement

“Repurchase agreements” and “reverse repurchase agreements” consist of the purchase and sale of securities where the clauses of the agreement require the seller to repurchase from the buyer and the buyer to sell back to the seller the securities sold/bought at a price and for a duration stipulated by the two parties at the time the agreement is entered into. Such “repo” and “reverse repo” agreements imply a transfer of ownership. They are valued at the market value.

k) Income on investments

Dividends are recognised as income on the date on which they are declared and to the extent that the information in question is available to the Company. Interest is recognised on a daily basis.

l) Valuation of swaps

IRS (Interest Rate Swaps) shall be valued on the basis of the difference between the value of all future interest payable by the Company to its counterparty on the valuation date at the zero coupon swap rate corresponding to the maturity of these payments and the value of all future interest payable by the counterparty to the Company on the valuation date at the zero coupon swap rate corresponding to the maturity of these payments.

The internal model for valuing CDS (Credit Default Swaps) uses the yield curve of the CDS, the recovery rate and a discount rate (LIBOR or the market swap rate) to calculate the mark-to-market. This internal model also produces the default probability curve. In order to establish the CDS yield curve, data from a number of counterparties active in the CDS market are used. The fund manager compares the valuation of the counterparties' CDS to the values obtained via the internal model. The starting point for the construction of the internal model is the equality, at the time the CDS agreement is signed, of the floating leg and the fixed leg of the CDS.

A Total Return Swap (TRS) is a bilateral agreement in which each party agrees to exchange payments based on the performance of an underlying instrument represented by a security, commodity, basket or index thereof for a fixed or variable rate. One party pays out the total return of a specific reference asset, and in return, receives a regular stream of payments. The total performance will include gains and losses on the underlying, as well as any interest or dividends during the contract period according to the type of underlying. The cash flows to be exchanged are calculated by reference to an agreed upon notional amount or quantity.

Total return swaps are marked to market at each NAV calculation date. The unrealised appreciation/depreciation is disclosed in the Statement of net assets under "Net Unrealised gain/loss on financial instruments". Realised gains/(losses) and change in unrealised appreciation/depreciation as a result thereof are included in the Statement of operations and changes in net assets respectively under "Net realised result on Financial instruments" and "Movement on net unrealised gain/loss on Financial instruments".

"Inflation swaps" are bilateral agreements which allow investors looking to hedge an investment to secure an inflation-linked return against an inflation index.

The inflation buyer (inflation receiver) pays a predetermined fixed or floating rate (minus a spread). In exchange, the inflation buyer receives from the inflation seller (inflation payer) one or more inflation-linked payments.

The principal risk associated with an inflation swap lies in its sensitivity to interest rates and inflation: the inflation payer takes on the risk of inflation or, in other words, of changes likely to affect the inflation curve. The payer also bears a risk relating to interest rates or, in other words, to changes in the nominal yield curve. In order to value inflation swaps, a "forward zero coupon" swap curve (seasonally adjusted for inflation) is constructed, facilitating the calculation of future inflation cash flows.

In compliance with the obligations under CSSF circular 11/512, the Company employs the services of an independent pricing agency for the daily valuation of variance swaps. The valuation method consists in using a portfolio of European options to replicate the losses or profits on the variance swaps as they would occur under standard market conditions. The options replicate forward strike prices within a standard deviation range of plus or minus four points of the forward contract price for any given maturity. This valuation method is similar to the Black & Scholes method in that the price is derived from European options prices. The full details on each variance swap agreement are sent to the pricing agency, which in return provides a daily valuation validated by the OTC Pricing team.

m) Position on mortgage-backed securities (to be announced)

Mortgage-backed securities are subject to current commercial market practices in relation to securities guaranteed by bonds, according to which a security will buy/sell a basket of mortgage loans for a fixed price at a later date.

At the time of the purchase/sale, the exact security is not known but its principal features are. Even if a price is agreed at the time of purchase/sale, the final face value will not yet have been fixed.

The "To be Announced ("TBA") Mortgage Back Securities" positions are shown in the securities portfolios as at 31 December 2015.

At the closing date, the purchase/sale of these securities had not yet been settled. As a result, the amounts relating to payables/receivables on securities are included under "Other liabilities"/"Other assets" in the Statement of net assets.

Note 3 - Management and advisory fees (maximum per annum)

The maximum fees are to be split between the fund manager and the distributor, and are payable monthly on the basis of the average net assets at the following annual rates.

b) sub-funds, share categories and/or classes:

(i) whose securities are reserved for Institutional Investors, Managers, or UCIs and
(ii) whose sole object is the collective investment in money market instruments and the placing of deposits with credit institutions, and
(iii) whose weighted residual portfolio maturity does not exceed 90 days, and
(iv) that have obtained the highest possible rating from a recognised rating agency;

c) sub-funds, categories and/or classes reserved to:

(i) institutions for occupational retirement pension or similar investment vehicles, set up at the initiative of one or more employers for the benefit of their employees, and
(ii) companies having one or more employers investing funds to provide pension benefits to their employees;

When it is due, the "taxe d'abonnement" is payable quarterly on the basis of the relevant net assets and is calculated at the end of the quarter for which the tax is applicable.

In addition, the Company may be subject to foreign UCI's tax, and/or other regulators levy in the country where the sub-fund is registered for distribution.

The value of the assets represented by units/shares held in other UCIs that have already been subject to the "taxe d'abonnement" are exempt from the "taxe d'abonnement".

Note 11 - Swaps

Credit Default Swaps

The Company has entered into credit default swap agreements whereby it exchanges fixed income for income linked to changes in credit events, whether with respect to an index or a bond (see details in the tables below), and vice versa. These amounts are calculated and recognised at each calculation of the Net Asset Value; the amount of the unrealised capital gain is stated under "Net Unrealised gain on financial instruments" in the Statement of net assets, and the amount of net capital loss is given under "Net Unrealised loss on financial instruments" in the Statement of net assets.

Total Return Swaps

A Total Return Swap (TRS) is an agreement to exchange the total performance of a bond or other underlying asset (share, index, etc.) for a benchmark rate plus a spread. The total performance includes the interest coupons, dividends and profits and losses on the underlying asset over the life of the agreement, depending on the type of underlying concerned. The risk in this type of agreement is linked to the fact that the benefit for each counterparty will depend on how the underlying asset performs over time, which is unknown at the time at which the agreement is entered into.

Swaptions

A type of option between two parties that can be exercised on a swap where the buyer of the swap has the right, but not obligation to, receive an agreed upon fixed interest rate. The buyer pays a premium for the right to swap at this fixed rate. Short for a call swap option, a call swaption can be used as a hedging tool to avoid risk if a bond issuer believes interest rates might decrease.

Note 17 - Transaction fees

Transaction fees incurred by the Fund relating to purchase or sale of transferable securities, money market instruments, derivatives or other eligible assets are mainly composed of standard fees, sundry fees on transaction, stamp fees, brokerage fees, custody fees, VAT fees, stock exchange fees and RTO (Reception and Transmission of Orders) fees.

In line with bond market practice, a bid-offer spread is applied when buying and selling these securities. Consequently, in any given transaction, there will be a difference between the purchase and sale prices quoted by the broker, which represents the broker's fee.

Note 18 - Reclaiming withholding tax on dividends

In several European Union countries, dividends paid out by companies are taxed differently depending on whether they are paid to domestic or foreign entities. In fact, when dividends are paid to a foreign entity, the foreign entity is sometimes subject to a withholding tax. This represents a difference in tax treatment, which is considered as a breach of European Union law and the principle of the free movement of capital.

Since a number of decisions have been taken by the European Court of Justice and the Council of State in favour of foreign residents, the management company has applied for refunds of withholding tax paid on dividends received from foreign companies in respect of funds domiciled in Luxembourg where the prospect of obtaining such refunds is considered to be favourable to the funds concerned.

As the tax reclaim procedures must be undertaken with the tax authorities concerned, the final result of these procedures and the time the tax authorities would take to respond cannot be predicted. Due to the uncertainty of the recoverability of the amounts, no accrual is recorded and it is booked under the caption “Income on investments and assets” when received.

Voting rights - Governance and voting policy

a) Introduction

BNP Paribas Investment Partners (BNPP IP) considers the promotion of sound corporate governance practices to be an essential part of its proprietal responsibility. Corporate governance has to do with the system by which a company is managed and controlled. It relates to its management, its supervision and control mechanisms, as well as its relationships with stakeholders. Sound corporate governance establishes the framework which ensures that the company is managed in accordance with the long-term interests of its shareholders. BNPP IP expects all companies in which it invests to conform to best corporate governance practices.

Voting at general meetings plays an important role in the dialogue with the companies in which we invest on behalf of our clients and is an integral part of the BNPP IP management processes.

BNPP IP ensures that it exercises its voting rights in consideration of the specific circumstances of the company. Our voting policy and guidelines are reviewed annually so as to take into account changes in governance codes and market practices and are approved by BNPP IP's Board of Directors.

Our voting policy applies to all of BNPP IP's management activities and to all BNPP IP entities that delegate the exercise of their voting rights to BNPP IP. The entities to which we delegate management duties are obliged to bear in mind our expectations and market practices when exercising their voting rights and to notify us regularly of the results achieved.

b) Governance and voting principles

The following principles describe BNPP IP's expectations of the listed companies in which it invests. They constitute a code of conduct guiding the execution of tasks on behalf of BNPP IP.

i. To act in the long-term interests of shareholders

The primary objective for companies should be to achieve long-term value for shareholders. Corporate governance practices should concentrate the attention of the Board of Directors on this objective. A clear strategy must be implemented to fulfill this objective, while considering all key stakeholders.

ii. To protect the rights of shareholders

All shareholders must be given the opportunity to vote on decisions pertaining to fundamental changes to the Company. Companies must ensure that investors' rights are protected and treated on an equal basis, in particular by respecting the principle of one share - one vote - one dividend.

Capital increases should be regulated in order to minimise dilution risk for existing shareholders. The mechanisms for averting takeover bids must not be deployed to unburden directors of their responsibilities.

iii. To ensure an independent, effective advisory structure

The Board of Directors and committees should maintain a strong presence of non-executive directors to ensure that management is effectively supervised. Directors must have the skills and involvement necessary to improve the efficiency of the Board of Directors. Finally, directors must be chosen in light of the need for the Board to be appropriately diverse.

iv. To align compensation structures with the long-term interest of shareholders Compensation must be aligned with the Company's long-term performance. Compensation schemes should in no way limit the Company's ability to attract and retain directors. They must be in line with best market practices and be clearly communicated to shareholders in detail.

v. To disclose adequate information in a precise and timely manner

Companies should ensure that the financial and operating results as well as information on capital distribution and on environmental, social and governance performance are communicated in a precise and timely manner. Annual audits of the financial statements produced by independent external auditors should exist in all companies.

vi. To ensure sound environmental and social performance

Companies should behave responsibly towards all their stakeholders and respect best environmental, social and governance practices in order to protect the long-term interest of shareholders. Companies should supply information on their carbon emissions and their commitment to the fight against climate change.

c) Practical voting procedures

i. The client

BNPP IP advises its clients to delegate their voting rights to BNPP IP to allow the Company to preserve the interests of shareholders. BNPP IP votes solely in the interest of its clients and the ultimate beneficiaries of the funds for which it is responsible. BNPP IP must not subordinate the interests of its clients to other objectives.

For clients having delegated their voting rights to BNPP IP, BNPP IP will ensure that proxies are received and voted in accordance with BNPP IP guidelines. All BNPP IP clients are made aware that such policies and voting procedures are in place.

ii. Voting committee

BNPP IP has appointed a proxy voting committee (PVC), which draws up the voting policy and then monitors adherence to this policy and the procedures. As voting is considered an integral part of the investment process, ultimate voting responsibility falls to the fund manager.

iii. Voting perimeter

The selection of securities over which BNPP IP exercises voting rights is guided by a dual objective: to concentrate our efforts on positions that account for a major proportion of our assets under management and to attend the general meetings of shareholders of those companies in which our funds hold a significant share of the capital.

Our voting perimeter consists of companies in which the aggregated positions meet the following two criteria:

- They account for 90% of the accumulated total of our equity positions.
- They account for at least 1% of the company's stock exchange capitalisation.

iv. Voting procedure

The following points outline the key steps in the voting procedure by mail, from notification of the agenda for ordinary general meetings (OGM) or extraordinary general meetings (EGM) to execution of the vote:

- The company announces the OGM/EGM and its agenda.
- The custodian sends the ballot papers to the voting platform.
- Securities on loan are recalled or lending is restricted where it is deemed that the vote is important for the company or that too many securities are on loan.
- The SRI team and our voting service provider conduct an analysis of the agenda and make voting recommendations in accordance with our guidelines.
- Dialogue gets under way with issuers on an ad hoc basis.
- Voting instructions are issued by the fund manager or PVC and the vote is executed via our platform.

v. Conflicts of interest

The free exercise of voting rights by BNPP IP would most likely be put in jeopardy in the following situations:

- An employee has personal or professional ties with the company whose shares are subject to the vote;
- Commercial relationships exist between the company concerned by the vote and another entity of the BNP Paribas Group;
- The voting rights being exercised involve shares of the BNP Paribas Group or significant interests of the Group.

A number of mechanisms are aimed at preventing potential conflicts of interest:

- The voting policy stipulates that voting must be carried out "in the exclusive interest of our clients and principals" and stresses the independence of BNPP IP from the BNP Paribas Group and its business lines and subsidiaries;
- The voting guidelines, which provide a decision-making framework in relation to the exercise of the vote, are approved by the BNPP IP Board of Directors;
- Draft resolutions are assessed on the basis of analyses performed by independent external consultants;
- Employees have a duty to respect the procedures governing personal gifts and perquisites, and are obliged to declare any other professional activity;
- The "Chinese wall" separating BNPP IP from the other entities of the Group guarantees that BNPP IP employees remain independent in the conduct of their missions and responsibilities.

Files on all potential conflicts of interest and their resolution will be held with the minutes of the PVC.

Unavoidable conflicts of interest are resolved via an escalation mechanism involving the management of BNPP IP, namely:

i. The fund manager
ii. The compliance and internal audit officers
iii. The Chairman

vi. Transparency and Reporting

BNPP IP is transparent as regards its voting policy and procedures:

- A copy of this policy can be viewed on the BNPP IP website;
- An annual report is published, which gives an overview of our voting activities;
- Details on our voting activity, resolution by resolution, can be obtained by our clients upon request.

d) Voting guidelines

These voting guidelines supplement the voting policy concerning voting at general meetings of shareholders of BNPP IP listed companies. The main types of resolution on which we are called to vote fall within four categories:

i. Approval of financial statements
ii. Financial operations
iii. Appointment and compensation of directors and corporate officers
iv. Other resolutions (e.g. regulated agreements)

For each type of resolution, the guidelines propose the best practices and indicate situations that may lead to objections or abstentions during the vote.

Voting decisions are taken in view of the following principles:

- "For": the resolution reflects or is based on best practice and is in the long-term interest of shareholders.
- "Abstention": the resolution raises an issue from the shareholders' perspective.
  "Against": the resolution is unacceptable and is not in the long-term interest of shareholders.

Consideration of environmental, social and governance (ESG) criteria

BNP Paribas Asset Management applies a Responsible Investment Policy which sets out a certain number of ESG criteria applicable to our investment decisions. This policy is based on the criteria of the United Nations Global Compact, an international framework built on international conventions relating to human rights, labour, the environment and anti-corruption.
